Action Shots Photo Contest Instructions

Step 1.

Take a photo of you or your fellow JCI members taking action. While this may sound simple, getting a great photo takes careful planning and a keen eye for detail. By following the steps below, you can ensure your photos will capture the essence of the JCI Impact:

1. Choose compelling photo subjects performing an obvious action.
2. Select a scene that provides a context for the actions being taken.
3. Keep both eyes open while shooting and pay attention to the environment around your photo.
4. Shoot with your back to the sun or source of light to ensure your subjects are properly lit.
5. Shoot naturally occurring interactions – posing for photos is fun, but it does not convey action.
6. Shoot more pictures than you need, because you can always pick the best one and edit it later.
7. Don't disturb the event in progress just to get a good photo. Remember, the action being taken is the important part.

Step 2.

Create an account on Flickr. If you already have a Yahoo! account, you may login with your Yahoo! user name and password. If not, click on the link below and follow the instructions.

<http://www.flickr.com/signup/>

Step 3.

After signing in with your account, click "Upload" at the top of the screen, or click on the link below.

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/upload/>

Click "Choose Photos and Videos" and select up to five photos you want to submit for the JCI Action Shots Contest. Make sure the "Public" option is selected and click "Upload Photos and Videos." In just a few minutes, your photos will be uploaded to your own Flickr page.

Step 4.

After the photos are finished uploading, click "add a description" and use the following format, so we can track to whom the photo belongs and learn what action is taking place in the picture.

Name:

E-mail Address:

JCI Local Organization:

JCI National Organization:

Photo Caption:

Add any tags you would like to help others find your picture and click "save."

Step 5.

Click on the JCI Action Shots Flickr Group link below and click “Join Group” to become a member.

<http://www.flickr.com/groups/jciactionshots/>

Finally, click “Add something” and select the photos you’ve just uploaded to add them to the group’s page. When you see that your photos have been added to the group, you are finished submitting your photos for consideration, but take time to browse the photos others have uploaded and see the action all your fellow JCI members are taking to create an impact around the world.

Action Shots Photo Contest Rules

1. Only photos submitted to the JCI Action Shots group on Flickr during the month of March 2011 will be considered.
2. Each JCI member is limited to uploading five photos for consideration in the competition. Any additional photos will not be evaluated.
3. All photographs must include the name, JCI Local and National Organization and email address of the JCI member submitting the photo.
4. Each photo must include a caption describing the action taking place during the shot.

All photos will be reviewed by 2011 JCI President Kentaro Harada, and the three individuals whose photos best demonstrate how JCI members are taking action will be rewarded with exclusive new JCI Nothing But Nets t-shirts.

All photos submitted will be shown in a slide show before and after the JCI Morning Shows at the 2011 JCI World Congress in Brussels, Belgium.

Thank you all in advance for your kind cooperation.
